Commenting that pay and other conditions for the civil service in Malaya has led to a spirit described as "one of extreme discontent," Mr. J. Henderson Steward (National Liberal, East Fife) has invited the urgent attention of Mr. Arthur Creech Jones, the Colonial Secretary, to the matter.

In a letter to the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Steward writes: "I have had several letters from friends and constituents now working in Government Service in Malaya. The reports of all of them are the same, namely that while here at home and in most other parts of the world salaries have been substantially increased, in Malaya civil service they are still operating on pre-war salaries with a minute addition which appears ludicrous in the light of the greatly increased cost of living in the area.

"My correspondents tell me that but for their pension rights every one of them would by now have resigned from the service."

The deduction by the Colonial Office of ten per cent from the salaries of civil servants interned by the Japanese, said to be "in respect of Colonial Income tax" appears to the men affected as grossly unfair, he concluded.—Reuter.

British Companies
In Shanghai

Shanghai, Jan. 7.

The future status and operation of two British utility companies in the former International Settlement in Shanghai is in question today following the closure last night of the only Soviet radio station in China and orders for the suspension of all but eighteen authorized Chinese-owned stations.

Official Chinese opposition to foreign ownership and management of such concerns on Chinese soil brought long-promised action to close all but Chinese-Government-approved or Chinese-owned radio stations and brought to the fore the question of the British-owned Shanghai waterworks and the British-owned tramways.

A spokesman for both concerns said the future was "very much up in the air." He told the United Press that while stupendous inflation makes exact assessment impossible, the "properties" replacement value runs into nine figures in United States dollars.

The waterworks franchise with the prewar Shanghai Municipal Council ended on December 31. Since no purchase offer was made by the present municipality two years before the expiration date—as provided in the old franchise—the company's official position is that the franchise is automatically extended a further ten years.

The spokesman admitted, however, that in reality matters are in a state of flux. The tramways franchise runs until next October with a proviso for six months' notice if the municipality is not willing to renew the franchise. This question is one of the main points to be decided by the new session of the Shanghai City Council which convened yesterday.

The closed-down Soviet radio station XRVN "Voice of the Soviet Union" in China was organized by Tass during the Japanese occupation with the financial aid of the city's 15,000 Russian nationals—mostly newly fledged Soviet citizens. The station claims to have resisted repeated Japanese attempts to close it during the war.

In addition, Station CBS, a former French concern whose equipment is still owned by the French Consulate, but which is operated by a Chinese com-

D.B.S. BOY KILLED

A pupil of the Diocesan Boys' School was killed yesterday morning whilst on his way to school. The boy, 17-year-old James Chiu of 31, Kimberly Road, was on a bus with six or seven of his school friends, all going to school, and as the bus neared the stop at the end of Kadogan Avenue the boy jumped off the bus whilst it was still in motion. He fell and the left rear wheel of the bus ran over him.

Quads Born
In Wales

Bridgend, Jan. 7.

Quadruplets were born last night to Mrs. Peggy Thomas, 29-year-old wife of a Welsh painter.

The babies, two boys and two girls, were born at the Glamorgan County Hospital where attendants today said their condition was "rather little."

No physician was present at the birth and the delivery was accomplished by two nurses, Nesta Thomas and Nina Thomas. Mrs. Thomas is the wife of Tryngwyn Poddyrion Tylagwyn. He is 34 and the couple have had five other children three of whom are living.—United Press.

U.S. Mediation In China To End?

Nanking, Jan. 6.
General George C. Marshall will leave here Wednesday morning by air for Washington to confer with President Truman and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, his headquarters announced today.

Asked if the general would return to China to resume his peace efforts, his spokesman said "no comment." Marshall called on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek last night to say goodbye and to inform him he was returning to America.

Byrnes (State Secretary) that he desires to resign.

Reardon suggests the State Department post may merely be a springboard for Marshall to enter politics as the Democratic presidential candidate in 1948.

The New York Times reports that Byrnes asked Acheson to remain in his post to serve as Acting Secretary while Byrnes goes to Moscow in March to draft the German treaty, but Acheson maintained his desire to be allowed to resign.

Reardon suggests that Marshall might be asked whether the situation in China allows him to remain in Washington on which he would be offered Acheson's assistant secretaryship with a view to eventually succeeding Byrnes as Secretary of State as the latter also plans to retire.

Another View
Meanwhile, a less dramatic explanation is that Byrnes, during the two months remaining before going to Moscow, wants to review the United States policy in the two troubled areas of China and Argentina. Byrnes has begun consultation with U.S. Ambassador Messersmith regarding the Argentine, and many believe that Marshall's return would allow Byrnes to tighten the U.S. policy not only towards China but also towards Manchuria and Korea.—United Press.

No Statement

His route will be by way of Honolulu, where he will pick up Mrs. Marshall, whose vacation there will come to an end. During General Marshall's absence, his Nanking office will remain open under the direction of Colonel George T. Underwood.

The Presidential envoy's final day in Nanking was a busy one. After spending the greater part of the morning conferring with members of his staff he entertained the United States Ambassador, Dr. Leighton Stuart and the Chinese Foreign Minister Dr. Wang Shih-chieh to lunch. In the afternoon he met United States correspondents who called to say goodbye, but turned down all requests for a statement why he was leaving or whether he would be returning to China.

Second Trip

His callers in the evening included Premier T.V. Soong and the Chinese Communist delegation, headed by Chang Wen-chin.

Tung Pi-wu, the chief of the delegation, earlier expressed regrets that he would be unable to call personally to bid General Marshall goodbye because of his departure for Shanghai to confer on the Yellow River project.

This will be General Marshall's second trip to the United States since he first arrived in China a little over a year ago.

He returned to Washington on April 15. Meanwhile, undisturbed by the recall of General Marshall, the third part leaders, both in Shanghai and Nanking, today continued their efforts to bring about a resumption of the peace talks between the Kuomintang and Communists.—Reuter.

China's Failure
Observers agree that whether General Marshall will return to China after reporting "in person" to President Truman probably will depend upon the outcome of his talks with the President and the Secretary of State, and also whether General Marshall himself thinks his return would do any good.

American officials have warm praise for General Marshall's work, although he failed to achieve his objective. Officials insist it is China, not Marshall, that has failed.—United Press.

In Politics?
New York, Jan. 7.
The New York Times Washington correspondent, James Reston, reported today that Gen. Marshall upon his return from China may be asked to take a high post in the State Department, probably that of the present Assistant Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, whom Reston said has told Mr. James F.

LEOPOLD DIVORCE
RUMOUR

Brussels, Jan. 7.
King Leopold's Secretariat in Brussels issued a communique today describing as "entirely false" reports which have appeared in Belgian and foreign newspapers that King Leopold intends seeking a divorce.

King Leopold was married to Lillian Baels on Dec. 11, 1941, six years after his first wife, formerly Princess Astrid of Sweden, was killed in a motor accident in Switzerland.

He has four children, three by his first and one by his second marriage.—Reuter.

American
Hypnotism?

Canberra, Jan. 7.

Strong criticism of United States economic policy was made here today by Mr. L. A. M. Wishall, the Director of the Association of Chambers of Manufacturers.

"The world is hypnotized by Washington propaganda," he declared, "if it accepts unquestioningly the claim that expanding world economy and high employment levels are obtainable by throwing countries wide open to the influx of goods from the wealthiest and most highly industrialized."

"Americans evidently want the right to cancel any trade bargain if the cancellation were in their interest."

Adoption of the findings of the London preparatory conference on trade and employment would "perpetuate the shackles on Australia's industrial development," he said.

This conference, held last November with Britain and the United States as the hosts, agreed on changes in the international organization of commerce.

"Small countries would be thrown wide open to goods from the largest and wealthiest and most industrialized countries," he asserted.—Reuter.

BALLROOM FIRE

New York, Jan. 7.
A fire on the third floor of Capital Ballroom, in the heart of New York, forced 109 guests to flee.

Discovered at 4 a.m., the fire filled the hotel with smoke and panicked the guests but the police were promptly on the scene and mastered the situation. There were no casualties.—United Press.

Tojo Didn't Like
Executions

Tokyo, Jan. 7.

Hideki Tojo and Heitaro Kimura, respectively No. 1 and No. 2 of the former Japanese War Ministry, opposed the execution of the Doolittle Tokyo air raiders because they feared Japanese prisoners in American hands would be similarly treated, according to former Maj.-Gen. Ryukichi Tanaka.

Under cross-examination at the Tokyo war crimes trial of Tojo and other top Japanese wartime leaders, a statement of the pudgy, growing former Chief of Staff of the Japanese First Army virtually absolved Kimura of responsibility for mistreatment of Allied war prisoners by the Japanese.

Kimura's defence attorney, Mr. Collins Howard, drew from Tanaka the statement that the Japanese Prisoners of War Bureau was outside the War Ministry and therefore outside Kimura's authority.

Also, Tanaka testified that General Kimura, who was Vice-Minister of War under Tojo, did not have any authority to attend important Imperial Liaison conferences.

Moreover, Tanaka added, although Kimura attended the meetings at Imperial headquarters, he did not have any power to participate in important decisions.

He was killed as he crouched in a sleeping bag under a spruce tree in the Catskill mountains, legendary home of Rip Van Winkle.

Rycco, firing a German automatic, exchanged shots with New York detectives and state police after he had been trapped a mile from the farmhouse where he had forced a couple to shelter him for the week-end.—Associated Press.

Grenade
Explodes
In Pocket

A Chinese was literally hoist with his own petard last night when a hand grenade exploded in his pocket, killing him instantaneously.

The incident occurred outside 257-259 Queen's Road Central, near the Central Theatre, at 7.30 last evening. Three other men were injured.

Police were quickly on the scene but no arrests were made and investigations are continuing. Theory is, however, that the grenade was not intended for the shops outside which the explosion occurred, as neither had received threatening letters.

The two shops—one a curio dealer, the other a shoemaker—had their show window glass shattered. Glass splinters were scattered for some distance down the street by the force of the explosion.

The man carrying the grenade, who has not been identified, was thrown some half dozen yards by the explosion, while a hawkers' stall on the opposite side of the street was upset.

SHOWDOWN IN NEAR EAST?

London, Jan. 6.

Fears were being expressed by political observers in London tonight that Britain may be heading for a showdown with the whole of the Arabs in the Middle East.

There is every indication that both in Palestine and in Egypt events are now moving to a climax. It is now no secret that while official policy is unlikely to be stated before the Palestine Conference opens on January 21, opinion in Whitehall is moving in favour of partition as a long-term solution of the Palestine problem.

In Arab quarters it is maintained that if such a plan is presented to the delegates of the Arab States, who have now accepted the British invitation to the conference, they will immediately return home. It is also strongly emphasised by Arabs in London that partition would be resisted to the limit by the Arab world and that outbreaks of violence from the Arab community in Palestine would certainly be feared as the consequence.

So far, it is understood that no British reply has been sent to the two memoranda from the Arab League received at the Foreign Office last week, which urge that the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem should be allowed to go home and that attendance at the Palestine Conference of the Palestine Arab Higher Committee should be secured.

The position is that Britain would have welcomed all members of the Palestine Arab Higher Committee at the conference, except the Mufti of Jerusalem, without whom other members refuse to attend.

There are no indications that this position has changed.

Wait And See

Despite substantial rumours that Britain is veering round to partition, which has the support of a large and influential minority of the Zionist Movement, well-informed observers here do not expect that a Jewish delegation will not attend the conference. The attitude of the Zionist Movement, following the fruitless talk of last week between Mr. Arthur Creech Jones (Colonial Secretary) and Mr. David Ben-Gurion (Chairman of the Zionist Executive), is one of wait and see, though this might later be modified if a firm offer to establish an independent Jewish state in a substantial area of Palestine were forthcoming.

But it remains the view of usually well-informed observers here that such move would throw the Arab League, which already fears an announcement of this type, into a fighting frame of mind.

No Accident

It is considered no accident that the Arab League should have chosen the present juncture when partition is very definitely in the wind to come out formally in support of the Egyptian case on the Sudan, the critical stumbling block in the negotiations to revise the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty. If these finally break down—and it is clear that there is a grave danger that they will do so—the Arab League must be expected to take a strong line on this question, as well as over the Palestine problem. Recent reports from Egypt suggest that a final breakdown of negotiations would be followed by Egypt's denunciation of the 1936 treaty on the ground that Britain had exceeded her powers to administer the Sudan given her under the Condominium.

If the worst came to the worst, Britain might be faced with the prospect of imposing partition in Palestine in face of Arab opposition and of attempting to maintain her rights under the still valid 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty in face of strong Egyptian opposition.

American Aid

It is far from clear whether the United States, which has constantly pressed for partition as a solution for Palestine, would be prepared to give military assistance, in carrying it through. In the background there remains, of course, the possibility that both the Palestine and Egyptian problems may be brought before the United Nations.

Meanwhile, pending the vital decisions which the Cabinet is expected to take this week, informed quarters tonight underline the following key features:

1. The certainty of an immediate tightening of military security measures in Palestine but it is hoped—with the co-operation of the responsible elements of the population.

Over-Population Root Cause Of Wars

The root cause of wars is over-population, and until the populations of the world have been brought under effective international control, no League of Nations or United Nations Organisation can prevent war.

This was the theme of Prof. K. H. Digby's talk on "Control of Populations" before a large audience at the Hong Kong Rotary Club weekly luncheon yesterday.

Prof. Digby said in part: "I don't like talking about my own job except to technical audiences. My colleagues might suspect me of advertising. I could, of course, tell you dozens of funny stories at the expense of doctors and surgeons. But I am not a natural humorist and the yarns might all be taken seriously. And then my colleagues might again be after me."

Still, it is always easy to talk about something on which one is not an authority—there is no sense of responsibility to cramp one's style. For the more a man knows about a subject the more cautious he is about saying anything. And, conversely,

So I am going to give you some reflections upon a matter which is of prime importance.

Perhaps the greatest underlying cause of war is the bursting pressure of over-population. It misrepresents in many guises—tariffs, quarrels, wanton invasions, immigration restrictions, ill treatment of foreigners. Its force has been made use of by religious and ideological fanatics, and has been taken advantage of by the statesmen and statesmen to serve their own personal ambition for power. But the real motive force of a wave does not rest in the spray upon its surface.

No atomic power for easy food production and transport can more than temporarily relieve the tension of expanding population for the latter will swiftly fill up any gap thus produced, and then go on increasing more rapidly than before for the simple reason that there will be more inhabitants to multiply.

Nor can it be changed appreciably by the voluntary limitation of the size of families by the more intelligent and gifted section of the community; besides which the practice may breed out a much needed element.

Nor would restriction of births by a single nation effect much general improvement, and it would eventually lead to the extinction of that present time it is the more highly civilised peoples which seem chiefly inclined to commit race suicide in this fashion.

Now a universal limitation of families throughout the world might prevent the pressure of population from reaching the boiling-over point. But it would have the very serious result of causing a deterioration of the human stock.

Man has reached his high point of evolution by the process of natural selection from an excessive number of individuals with variations in each successive generation. Each generation has exceeded in numbers the food supply. The quickest, cleverest, strongest, the best fighter has survived and produced the next generation. So the eye and the brain have been moulded into a high state of excellence. But if the number of babies only equals the number of parents, the standard must fall away. For there is always some degree of variability in the offspring.

owing to the remingling of the characters of the two parents and to other causes. This variability is beneficial when it leads to upward evolution. But only if breeding takes place from the best modifications. This is secured in nature by the killing off of the more numerous imperfect variations.

Does any way lead out of this impasse? Yes, of course. We can encourage the number of children whose parents are above the average morally, mentally and physically, and discourage of the propagation of the unfit. Thus replacing the cruel and anti-social methods of natural selection by intelligent eugenic selection; and thus also leading to almost incredible improvements in the

STORM BATTERS SYDNEY

Sydney, Jan. 7. Sydney's eastern suburbs received another thunderstorm battering last night when heavy damage was done to property, particularly to homes whose roofs had been broken in with a heavy hail storm on New Year's Day.

Many householders were flooded out and obliged to seek refuge with neighbours. Tram and trolley bus services were disrupted through overhead wires collapsing. —Reuter.

framework and capacity of every human being alive.

Special education and healthy surroundings will make people physically stronger and more intelligent. But their offspring will not on that account inherit greater strength or intelligence. A man may undergo continuous intensive physical exercise and athletic games. But this exercise will not of itself affect the physique of his children. In other words, acquired characters are not inherited.

Children do not exactly resemble their parents. Each is a new blend of mixture of inherited parental characters. There is a considerable range of variation in the new generation, chiefly the result of the recombination of parental genes or chromosomes as it is called. The blending of two genes in all the thousands of genes which make up the human body produces a new combination of characters. This is the process of natural selection. It is the process by which the fittest survive and produce the next generation. It is the process by which the human race has evolved from a lowly ape-like creature to a highly intelligent being.

War is another "Dysgenic factor." It is the process by which the fittest are killed off and the unfit are allowed to survive and produce the next generation. It is the process by which the human race is being degenerated. It is the process by which the human race is being brought back to a lowly ape-like creature.

EMIL LANDAU'S STORY OF TORTURES

Recounting the tortures which had been received by him and his wife at the hands of the Japanese, Mr. Emil Landau, of the Parisien Grill, in his statement which was read out at yesterday's War Crimes Trial of Colonel Noma, said that when the Japanese searched his house and returned with 100s from the British Government, Messrs. Butterfield & Swire and Messrs. Williamson & Co., they became much more vindictive towards him and would not believe anything he said.

Mr. A. K. Omar, Supervisor, Dairy Farm Ice and Cold Storage Co., Ltd., testified regarding the execution of Chinese at Stanley.

An application by Defence Counsel to call a witness for the defence who is shortly being repatriated, was not granted. The President intimated that arrangements should be made for the witness to be held back. Lau Chung Yiu, of the General Post Office, who was detained at Victoria Gaol from April 12, 1944, until the end of July 1944, said that he was forced to act as interpreter at interrogations of a Lieut. Shrigley.

On the first occasion, Shrigley was interrogated from 10 a.m. till 6 p.m. During the interrogation, Shrigley was tied to a ladder and given the water torture throughout the afternoon and beaten with a leather strap. He was again questioned and given the water torture about a week later.

Shrigley was in a very poor state after this interrogation and torture. As he walked very slowly back to his cell, he told Lau that he could not bear it and would die.

At about 10 o'clock, next morning, Lau said he heard the sound of a dull thud outside his cell, and saw the body of a man on the floor.

The Formosan interpreter came to Lau's cell and called him out to take a last statement from Shrigley, who had thrown himself from the third floor of the building.

At that time, Shrigley was already unconscious. He was moved to an open yard and Dr. Ramler was sent for to try and save his life. When Dr. Ramler arrived he gave Shrigley an injection, but said the case was hopeless.

"Humbag"

At about 11 a.m. a Japanese doctor pronounced Shrigley dead. A Gendarme by the name of Marino was present when Shrigley died. He kicked the body of Shrigley and said "humbag."

Tam Choi, who was recalled for cross-examination, said that he had worked together with the six policemen who died at Victoria Gaol, prior to the Japanese occupation of Hong Kong. They had told him they were arrested at Fanling Station while attempting to get through to the British Consul in Waichow, from whom they intended to collect their pay.

Chang Mo Ching said that her husband, Ng Ying Chey, was arrested on April 13, 1944. When she next saw him, he was in the former Civil Hospital. His condition was such that she could hardly recognize him. He could not speak or move. When she asked a Gendarme for permission to take her six children to see their father, whom she knew was going to die, permission was refused. Her husband died subsequently.

When asked by Major MacGregor how she knew the man in question was a Gendarme, witness said that: "You must understand that at that time no one dared to gaze at a Japanese face."

The next witness, Dr. K. W. Chau, said that after paying a visit to the Medical Department on Feb. 10, 1943, he was taken away by a Japanese Gendarme Officer and a Formosan. He was shoved in a car, a piece of cloth placed over his head and he was pushed down on the floor of the car. "I was apparently abducted," said Dr. Chau.

H.K.V.D.C. Man's Evidence

The next time he knew was that he was at Central Police Station. Here, he was interrogated regarding the whereabouts of a Dr. Suen, who had left the Colony. Dr. Chau said that when he told the Japanese he did not know anything about Dr. Suen, he was called a "liar," tied up and given the aeroplane torture. While hung up, he was beaten about the face with a leather strap.

Dr. Chau said that he was also given the water torture.

Cheung and C. J. Roe, Condr. B. A. V. Gregory and Lt. Cdr. R. C. T. Hockridge, Lt. Col. J. R. Mitchell, announced that there would be no meeting next Tuesday on account of the anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

DUSSELDORF FIRE

Herford, Jan. 6. Fire broke out today among piles of paper in the basement of a steel house in Dusseldorf, British Military Headquarters for the Ruhr announced. The fire was soon under control and caused little damage, but the incident is being investigated. —Reuter.

well, but he had not had anything to do with plotting or espionage. Landau said that the Japanese then searched his house and returned with 100s from the British Government through Dr. Selwyn Clarke, from Butterfield & Swire for £2,500 and from Williamson & Co. for £40,000. Most of the money had been sent in by Mr. Hyde of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation to people in Stanley. After this, the Japanese were much more vindictive towards him and would not believe anything he said.

Wife Tortured

Torture really started in earnest, said Landau. He was completely starved for periods of four days, five days and ten days. His hands were tied behind his back and he was subjected to water treatment.

On one occasion, the Japanese arranged for Landau to hear his wife screaming under torture. Then later they brought her out in front of him partly dressed and subjected her to water treatment. His wife fainted and then they stopped.

On another occasion his wife was brought out with wrists tied behind her back and he was asked to hoist her up to a pipe. He refused.

His wife was released on July 13, 1944. Landau said he was not subjected to any more torturing after that date.

On Aug. 15, he was taken to Stanley Gaol for trial which took place on Oct. 28. In the meantime, he was confined to his cell and had to sit cross-legged on his bedboard facing the wall all the time.

At his trial, Landau said he was asked one question only—"Had he sent money for espionage purposes?" He replied "No." The trial lasted less than four minutes in all and he was sentenced to five years.

He was later told that the sentence had been reduced to three years.

At the time of the capitulation, Landau said he was serving his sentence.

Mr. A. K. Omar was then called and said he was arrested by the Japanese Gendarmes in 1943 at Pokfulam. He was taken to Central Police Station, where he was kept for three and a half months.

He was interrogated at least four or five times.

Executions

When he first arrived at the Central Police Station, he was given a whipping, which was followed by aeroplane and water tortures.

Omar said that he was blindfolded and taken out of his cell at dawn one morning. He was placed on a truck with several others.

On reaching Stanley and after the bandage had been taken from his eyes, Omar saw four Chinese men, a Chinese woman and a small boy about 14 years of age. The whole party was then marched to the sea front. When they reached this spot, the Japanese who was carrying a big sword asked one of the Chinese to stand on a rock. Before the Chinese knew what was happening, the Japanese had chopped his head off. The second Chinese who was asked to mount the rock refused to move and was bayoneted by the Japanese. Another of the Chinese present availing his turn told the man that since he had to die in any event, it would be better to stand up and face it. The man then mounted the rock and was executed. This man was in a kneeling position as his head was chopped off. Omar said that he closed his eyes on the scene. The other Chinese, including the woman and small boy, were similarly executed.

When Omar's turn came, the Japanese said that as he was an Indian, they would not execute him if he would confess, but would send him to Camp with the British until the end of the war. Omar was told that if he refused, he would have to follow the others.

Cross-examined, Omar said that he was released from internment by the Japanese. Omar said that as an expression of their appreciation for what had been done for them, those released asked the Japanese to furnish an anti-aircraft gun so that an Ack-Ack Company might be formed.

On the Counsel how long his questioning would take, the latter replied that he would take at least 50 minutes with this witness, as he considered him to be one of the most important in the case.

Hearing was then adjourned till 10 a.m. today.

How The Buffs Got Their Name

When the Regimental Colours of the Buffs were recently marched off the troopship 'Dilwara' and received in Hong Kong, it was not the first occasion on which this regiment has visited the Colony. Thirty-six years ago the Regiment arrived in Hong Kong to form part of the British garrison forces stationed here in the year 1911.

The Royal East Kent Regiment, into its battalions a number of volunteers who had escaped from occupied Denmark and wished to serve with the British Forces. One of these men was awarded the Victoria Cross for gallantry in the European campaign. Some of the present volunteers are former members of the Danish underground movement, and all have signed on with the British Army for a maximum of three years. The bn. is quartered at Lyman Barracks and at Murray Barracks with headquarters at the latter.

WEDDING

Mrs. Daniel H. Lam, undergraduate of the University of the Philippines, Manila, son of Mr. Lam Chi Fung, well-known local Swatow merchant of the firm Sze Wai & Co., is to wed Miss Juanita Dec, undergraduate of the St. Thomas University, Manila, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Dec C. Chuan, patriotic timber king and formerly Chairman of the Manila Chinese Chamber of Commerce. The wedding will take place on 11th January, 1947 at St. John's Cathedral.

Proudest Day

The Regt. was originally raised from the Trained Bands of London and this gives it the honour of being one of the few regiments permitted to march through the City of London with bayonets fixed and colours flying. The unit had the title of Royal conferred on it in 1936, but its associations with the King date back to the seventeenth century when the monarchy allowed the Welsh Dragon, which forms their cap badge, to be copied from the Royal Coat of Arms. The proudest day of the year for the units is May 16 which they celebrate as their regimental day in honour of the battle of Albuera in the Peninsula war in 1811. On that day of bitter fighting the Colours were saved by the action of an officer, who, severely wounded and lying among the dead, wrapped them around his body where they escaped detection by the French until a British regiment found him.

The 2nd Bn. went to France in 1940 and subsequently fought in the North African campaign as part of a Buffs Brigade, formed entirely from three bns. of the Regt. It then joined the 1st Bn. and while serving there, had the distinction of providing the Guard of Honour for the meeting of Winston Churchill and Stalin at their historic conference at Teheran. In December 1944 the bn. moved to India and then to Burma, to join 38 Div. which was under the command of Gen. Festing. At the Japanese capitulation, they sailed for Singapore, as part of the British 2 Div, but they were no sooner settled there than they were called upon to move again, this time for service in Java. There they operated with 6 Indian Div. in the defence of Sourabaya. In the summer of this year they returned to Singapore.

FAN LING SERVICES HUNT CLUB

The ponies raced by the H.K. Services Race Club will shortly be disposed of, and it is proposed, if there is sufficient support, to form a Fan Ling Services Hunt Club for service personnel and their families, possibly with a percentage of membership reserved for civilians. Shortage of Funds is the main disadvantage and it is therefore requested that all those interested will write to Capt. A.W.C. Pearn, R.M., 42 Commando (L.T.), Royal Marines, Fan Ling by 15th Jan. 1947 stating if they would be prepared to pay a subscription of either (a) H.K. $30.00 or (b) H.K. $50.00 per six months. Letters should also state whether it is considered that H.K. $2.00 per hour for hacking and H.K. $5.00 for paper-chases is too expensive. Facilities open to members will be hacking in good riding country, paper-chases and possibly point-to-points. Membership will be very strictly limited due to the shortage of ponies. It is stressed that this club in no way intends to function in opposition to the civilian Hunt Club, but merely as a substitute in the interim period as was the H.K. Services Race Club merely a temporary substitute for the Hong Kong Jockey Club.

TOKUNAGA ON JAPS' BUSHIDO SPIRIT

Cross-examination of Colonel Tokunaga Isao, Commandant of POW Camps during the Japanese occupation, commenced yesterday morning before No. 5 War Crimes Court with an inquiry by the Prosecuting Officer, Major G. B. Puddicombe, K.C., into the meaning of bushido.

"Bushido is something more than philosophy, religion or the spirit of the soldier," Tokunaga explained. "It is difficult to explain. It is bushido. It is something that can be compared to English gentleness and the chivalry of the knight."

Major Puddicombe: How does the whole truth and nothing but the truth come into bushido? Does bushido consider a man dishonoured if he tells lies?—He would be considered dishonoured.

Was your undertaking to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth undertaken in the spirit of bushido or did you make a mental reservation?—That is correct.

You told us, Colonel, you made a report to Tokyo in 1942 explaining the escape of four Canadian prisoners from North Point Camp—I remember.

"Circumstances" Do you consider it was more honourable under the bushido code to be honest and tell the truth or to save face by lying? At the time there were circumstances.

Let's get a straight answer. Do you consider it better to save face to be honest?—I did the only possible thing.

Now, Colonel, I want an answer, not a speech, from you?—I thought it was the best thing to do. I told you that later I was ashamed.

You consider that falsehood is justified in order to save face?—Yes. It is wrong.

Am I to understand that telling a falsehood in order to save face is something very great.

Then, am I to understand that sometimes in reply to your Counsel you were saving face and not telling the truth?—My evidence in the affidavit is wrong, but I never told a falsehood in answer to a question put to me by my defence.

Will you tell the Court how they can be assured of that inasmuch you did not hesitate to tell a falsehood to your own Government?—Concerning the false report I sent to the Japanese Government, it was not under oath.

Remember a story you gave to Capt. Collinson concerning this escape, undertaking to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth?—I remember giving a statement, but I did not take an oath.

You made a solemn declaration, didn't you?—I did not.

A Signature Will you look at the signature on this document and tell me if it is yours or not?—This is my signature.

How does the solemn declaration you gave then differ from the one you gave in this Court?—At that time I heard there was no necessity for me to make a solemn declaration. The statements are not correct and I stated under oath in this Court that they are not. I do not see why I should be interrogated further about it.

When you made the statement to Tokyo, how was the face of the Camp endangered? Did the Camp lose face because the prisoners escaped?—Frequently there were escapes and it was

Readers' Letters

H.K.V.D.C. Grouse

Sir—With further reference to correspondence in your paper regarding Hong Kong Volunteer grievances, it has occurred to me that it may be very useful if these grievances do not go beyond the Hong Kong Government.

The Hong Kong Volunteer problem is, of course, the Government's responsibility. It does not seem difficult, as a decision, what ever it may be, affects one, and only one unit, I can't imagine the War Office turning down a reasonable and a properly made recommendation by the Government, can you?

Good luck to the Volunteers, I think they are much better off with their Association to represent their views, whilst we poor fellows, chaps, up and carry on, there's not to reason why.

CHEESED OFF.

Canteen Girls

Sir—We would like to express publicly our gratitude and appreciation to the girls of the Mobile Canteens and the male staff of the Mobile Canteens.

Their regular visits are the high lights of an otherwise plain day on the frontier posts and the cheerfulness and friendliness of the girls of the Mobile Canteens does a lot for the boys up here. Each visit of theirs seems to bring even closer the day when we shall each return to our own homes.

All we are able to do in return is to give them our heartfelt thanks and sincere best wishes for all happiness and good will in 1947.

SHA TAU KOK

Money Mart

Both gold and silver fluctuated heavily on the money market yesterday.

Gold continued its upward trend of the previous day, touching $240 a tael, 31-32 and ended at $241. Towards the close the market was quiet.

Platinum, opening at $13.90 per 100, climbed to $14.12. Then it started to drop and did not stop till it touched $13.86, from which point it started to rally closing at $13.90.

Chinese National Currency opened at 72 cents for futures and 90 cents for spot for CNY1,000 and closed at 67 cents and 84 cents respectively.

U.S. dollars appreciated to $4.90 buyers. Sterling and Australian pounds were unchanged at $4.85 and $12.50 respectively.

SYED CASE

Constable Ramzan Syed, of the Emergency Unit appeared before Mr. H. G. Sheldon on the charge of assaulting a hawker at Yau-mai on October 16.

Defendant who is represented by Mr. A. C. Arculi pleaded not guilty and the hearing was fixed for January 29.

ment of POWs. Major Puddicombe asked that a copy of these regulations be produced. Tokunaga's defence counsel, Mr. Fujita said that a translation would be available this morning and an adjournment was granted to 10 a.m. today.

In Gao Long Enough

Remarking that in view of the evidence and that he thought the prisoner had been in jail custody long enough, Mr. Justice E. H. Williams, Puisse Judge, at the Criminal Sessions yesterday sentenced Yau Kin-kong, 37, to one day's simple imprisonment for collaborating with the Japanese during the war.

Law who had been in jail custody for 14 months, was unanimously found guilty by the jury on three counts of doing acts with intent to assist the enemy contrary to the 1940 Defence Regulations.

Whilst a Kensa in the Japanese Gendarmerie, accused was alleged to have taken part in the arrest of four Chinese suspected of being guerrillas or spies on Aug. 11, 1942.

Mr. J. Reynolds, Crown Counsel, assisted by Inspector J. Bradley of the Special Branch, appeared for the Crown. Accused was not legally represented.

CONGRESS RELENTS

Though conceded with a wary face, Congress acceptance of the British Government's interpretation of the Cabinet Mission's proposals for the procedure of the Constituent Assembly moves India closer to a conciliatory solution of communal conflicts. The points at issue may have seemed of slight matter to an outside observer. To the Moslems of India they represented their one chance, apart from force, of securing freedom from Hindu rule. On the varied readings of the vital clauses the British Cabinet held that the Moslems were right, and the Congress Party wrong. Had the Congress Party rejected that interpretation after the return of Pandit Nehru to India, the Moslem League could not have been represented in the Constituent Assembly. The task of mediation or of obtaining the participation and co-operation of all parties in the Constituent Assembly, has been rendered peculiarly difficult but now that Congress has modified its attitude the way should be clear for Moslem cooperation in framing the new constitution.

Behind their objections throughout has been the fear that the Moslems may, as a minority, be for all time reduced to subservience under Hindu rule. The answer is that the Cabinet Mission plan, now accepted with the meaning attached to it by its authors, removes any such dread. Much, however, will still turn upon the spirit that animates the Constituent Assembly. Pandit Nehru has said that in his conception what must be sought is "equal freedom and equal opportunity for every one of the 400,000,000 of India." Pursuit of that ideal, if shown in the meetings of the Assembly, would leave the Moslems no excuse for abstention. Without their presence when the work of constitution-making is undertaken, the Assembly would be still-born, for it is inconceivable that Moslems would accept, for their majority Provinces, Constitutions that they had had no hand in framing. Nor, as the British Government statement made clear, would they be asked to do anything of the kind. It rests with the Congress Party leaders, therefore, to show that the fears of the Moslems are unfounded, and that communal differences are not incompatible with the maintenance of the unity that British administration has given India. Should the guidance offered in London be rejected no settlement of Indian differences could be found but in the acceptance of Pakistan. That solution would widen the gulf between Hindu and Moslem, destroy India as a nation, and be of grave economic disadvantage to the Moslems themselves. It could only be endorsed by the British Parliament and people after clear demonstration that every approach to conciliation had failed in India itself.

Four Distinct Steps
This year's work has followed a brilliantly-etched blueprint. There have been four distinct steps; at least, they are now becoming clearly distinct. First: It obtained constitutional powers. The weakness and fall of the Labour Government in 1931 were due to the fact that when it was faced with a crisis situation, in which emergency measures were imperative, it discovered that it had not been vested in advance, with the over-riding authority—the incontrovertible power over all the State potential—that was needed if extraordinary action could be taken.

Second: It secured financial power. In the old pluto-democracy the ultimate seat of authority was sited in the City, not in Downing Street.

Third: Britain went on the gold standard; came off it, raised prices, depressed wages, inflated money-values, forced up the cost of living, created artificial shortages and real unemployment, not at the dicta of Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, but Mr. Montagu Norman, the governor of the Bank of England.

The Dummies
Finance was the master; finance made war and postponed peace; finance put its dummies into Downing St. and, a mile away in the City of London, pulled the strings which jerked the dummies into the motions of "democratic action."

Armed with constitutional powers, the present Government immediately dethroned finance. It made the Bank of England England's bank. Never again can a Montagu Norman press a bell-button and the Prime Minister answer, "Did you ring, sir?"

SOVIET LOOSENS GRIP
London, Jan. 6. Full responsibility is to be vested in the German administration of the province of Thuringia in the Russian-controlled zone of Germany, the Soviet-controlled Leipzig Radio announced today. The broadcast stated: "Now that a democratic administration has been created in Thuringia the Soviet Military Occupation authorities will no longer deal directly with German matters but will confine themselves to advising Dr. Appel-Reuter."

BRITAIN IN REVOLUTION

Looking back over this year of Labour Government, the outlines of the picture reveal a major design—the design of revolution.

Dipping his pen in the inkpot of fact, the historian will record that the British Social Revolution began during the 1945-46 period.

There is now established the fact that all revolutions will have to take one of two forms—the so-called Russian form, dating from the French Revolution, when social change was calculated in terms of corpses, and the British form, when it is achieved by consent of those who, under the Russian-French form, would be the corpses.

Revolution has come to Britain in the British way: constitutionally, gentlemanly. That is the salient feature of the political year that has just ended.

Basically, this is a fundamentally different Britain from that which existed before. In the past new Governments, with new policies, have scraped away the top-soil of the economic acreage without in the least disturbing that underneath where the seeds were, as usual, germinating.

Digging Deep

This time a Government has come to power that has dug deep; has turned the soil right over; has got clean down to the basic material; has degenerated the old seeds and planted anew.

Not only is this an entirely different Britain; it is a Britain that cannot be returned to the old pattern at any time in any future. It is changed fundamentally and changed finally.

Up to a year ago, the political system here was that of a plutocracy—it was democratic insofar as democracy contributed to and did not interfere with the privilege of wealth. Now it is a social-democracy—its democratic character is based in the well-being of the community, whether they be wealthy or under-wealthy.

That is not to say that Britain is now a socialist country. It is not. Socialism is not the political philosophy expressed in the Government's legislation. Nor does this Government's legislation deny the Socialism philosophy. What this Government has done by its legislation to date is exactly opposite to what the legislation of all previous Governments had done—it has cleared the path to Socialism; it is the Pathfinder Government.

This year's work has followed a brilliantly-etched blueprint. There have been four distinct steps; at least, they are now becoming clearly distinct.

First: It obtained constitutional powers. The weakness and fall of the Labour Government in 1931 were due to the fact that when it was faced with a crisis situation, in which emergency measures were imperative, it discovered that it had not been vested in advance, with the over-riding authority—the incontrovertible power over all the State potential—that was needed if extraordinary action could be taken.

Second: It secured financial power. In the old pluto-democracy the ultimate seat of authority was sited in the City, not in Downing Street.

Third: Britain went on the gold standard; came off it, raised prices, depressed wages, inflated money-values, forced up the cost of living, created artificial shortages and real unemployment, not at the dicta of Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, but Mr. Montagu Norman, the governor of the Bank of England.

The Dummies
Finance was the master; finance made war and postponed peace; finance put its dummies into Downing St. and, a mile away in the City of London, pulled the strings which jerked the dummies into the motions of "democratic action."

Armed with constitutional powers, the present Government immediately dethroned finance. It made the Bank of England England's bank. Never again can a Montagu Norman press a bell-button and the Prime Minister answer, "Did you ring, sir?"

Third: The introduction of social reforms. There is a wide gulf between social reforms and Socialism; but this Government is not going to hold up one until it has built a bridge to the other.

Fourth: In order to bring the national resources into the service of the nation and ensure that they are developed to their utmost, certain basic industries have been, or are being, brought into public ownership. Coal has been nationalised. Civil aviation has been nationalised. Electricity and gas are the next to be nationalised. Next year all forms of transport will be unified and nationalised. So will the iron and steel industries.

Monty In Moscow

MOSCOW, JAN. 6. FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY OPENED HIS VISIT TO RUSSIA WITH AN EXPRESSION OF HOPE FOR THE GROWTH OF "MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING AND CONFIDENCE IN OUR RELATIONS SHIPS FOR THE MUTUAL BENEFIT OF US ALL."

Marshal Montgomery arrived by plane and landed to a rousing welcome in a swirling snowstorm. He was met by Marshal Alexander Vassilevsky, Soviet Chief of Staff.

It was understood Lord Montgomery brought Marshal Vassilevsky a case of Scotch whisky. "Britain Delivers the Goods," a statement in English, saying in part: "I come to Russia as a soldier. I want to pay my respects to the Soviet Army—that mighty army which played such a big part in the victory of the Allies over the Axis in the late war... the nation which suffered most severely was Russia and her people did not complain. I want to express my friendly contact with the Soviet Army." United Press.

British Claims Against Siam

Bangkok, Jan. 6. An agreement was signed today establishing a six-man commission to adjudicate the British Commonwealth war damage claims against Siam.

The agreement was signed by Siam, Britain, Australia and India and the commission comprises three Siamese members and one representative from each of the other three countries. It is understood that in the event of a tie in voting at the meetings of the commission the vote of the British Commonwealth members will be decisive.—Reuter.

What Makes A Film Great?

If only my manners would let me, how happily I would take part in other people's conversations! I dazzle myself with the brilliance of remarks that can never be made. My special mental torture last week was caused by two handsome and well-tailored young men who sat in front of me in a bus and held forth about film critics.

"Something should be done about them. They hate everything," said one. "It's not what they hate," said the other. "It's what they like. Why do they hate great pictures and go mad about second best films?"

It was maddening not being able to answer because I think I know what he meant.

By great pictures he meant films with stars whose fame brings queues to Broadway and Leicester-square; by second-best pictures he meant films without stars which may never reach Broadway or Leicester-square.

Charming Picture
I have seen one this week at the Toller in Charing Cross-road. It's French and it's called "A CAGE OF NIGHTINGALES," with Micheline Franklin.

Mr. Rank's new Gaumont French organisation are making an English sound track, and when it's finished this charming film is to be shown all over the country.

"The Authority on Authorities"

"COMPENSATED" SUIT BID

"COMPENSATED" bid was an expression introduced into the game by the brilliant old-timer Wilbur C. Whitehead, and showed the value of it emphatically by earning a clear top score for his pair on this deal. His truly expert bid of 3-Spades won the deal for himself and his partner, as they lost nothing but three tricks in spades.

Every pair that got into 3-No Trumps was set, some by one trick when only two tricks were collected in spades and some by two tricks, when three were scored in spades plus two tops in diamonds and one in hearts. The 4-Hearts declarers also were set with three tricks in spades and one in hearts.

Notice that, if North fitted neither hearts nor spades, he could have slid from the 3-Spades into 3-No Trumps, in which Mr. Churchill's clubs would have been very helpful.

China's Air Problem

Nanking, Jan. 6. China has appealed to American aviation experts to help in solving the crisis following the series of crashes which has taken more than 100 lives since Christmas.

Both the CNAC and CATC have excellent pilots, and equipment but that is only a small part of an overall safety factor and not enough to prevent crashes caused almost entirely by weather.

Experts pointed out that pilots take off at their own discretion without the benefit of proper advice and supervision. Most experienced aviators agree that China needs first foremost a well-trained Government organization for all civilian flights.

They suggest a broad programme for the reformation of the Chinese commercial airways system, including the installation of the latest equipment for weather information, radar approach and emergency fields.—United Press.

BY THE WAY

By BEACHCOMBER

I am still wondering what a woman meant who, after looking at a picture in her paper of a whaling ship about to set out, said emphatically, "Now at last there will be more eggs for the Welsh."

Failing a reasonable explanation, this reminds me of Commander Tower's remark, when told that the trade in worn-out horses for Belgium was still going on. "The Belgians don't hunt enough," said Commander Tower.

City Notes

One aspect of the latest clearing bank statements which has not been noticed is the tendency to include stocks of paper money in the figures of Government borrowing. Large scale borrowing against the issue of Treasury Bills can only temporarily influence the sale of the gilt-edged holdings. But when it is accompanied by a plentiful supply of cheap money, there is a demand for funds, and the demands on the increase of ordinary bank deposits. This may result in a check on credit expansion, and a cessation of renewals of stock.

Greedy

There is no doubt that eventually sheer necessity will bring about the conquest of other planets.

(From a lecture.)

But before these so-called conquests, the sheer and more pressing necessity of flying to the moon must be dealt with.

Frightfully Decent Show

The first grandmother to become a billiard-player is so small that she cannot reach the marking-board. This was only discovered when, at the end of her first session, no scores at all were marked up. "Never mind," said an official, "she is blazing the trail for those taller ones who will come after her."

Hot From The Dress Shows

The new evening frockette has only one shoulder, and the one sleeve is so long that great pieces can be torn or cut off at table. On the bare shoulder people are wearing a big lobster tattooed in crimson. The new Magyar corduroy half-sock, "gored rather than gathered," emphasizes the calf-length jacket. The latest hat is a tiny affair of orchid-pink felt, which is worn under the chin, and straps round the ears with lengths of tawny twine. A little green shirt, worn sideways, and reaching from the side of the neck to the waist, is useful for shopping expeditions. It is worn with a bolero skirt, ribbed, rolled, and hemmed.

Dr. Rhubarb writes: Start eating your bootlaces. He will think you are eating liquorice, and will then eat his own. Then none of you will have anything to fasten your boots with, and you can all start from scratch.

Airliner Turns Back

Manila, Jan. 7. The PAL airliner from Manila turned back yesterday when two hours out of Shanghai because of dense fog and rain made landing too dangerous, officials said today.

The plane, carrying a crew and four passengers, returned to Manila, where it has been grounded until weather conditions in Shanghai permit resumption of the trip. PAL officials pointed out that their ships always carried enough gasoline to permit return to the starting point as a precautionary measure.—United Press.

Tel. 34107NATIONAL UNITY APPEAL
President Truman's Message To Congress
Control Of Labour
Proposals

Washington, Jan. 6.

President Truman urged a four-point labour legislative programme and stressed the need for a universal army training, when he addressed a joint session of the Senate and Congress today. President Truman, delivering his 6,000 word "State of the Union" message in person to the Republican-dominated Congress, asked for permission to increase the immigration quotas into the United States, called for continued foreign relief and repeated his pleas for unified armed services.

Appealing for two-party cooperation, President Truman said: "The power to mould the future of this nation lies in our hands—yours and mine joined together. If in this year and in the next we can find the right course to take as each issue arises, and if, in spite of all the difficulties, we have the courage and resolution to take that course, then we shall achieve a state of well-being for our people without precedent in our history."

"If we continue to work with other nations of the world earnestly, patiently and wisely we can (granting a will for peace on the part of our neighbours) make a lasting peace for the world."

He pointed out that the present situation in which Congress is controlled by the party in Opposition to the President's party is far from unique, President Truman said. "On some matters Congress and the President have honest differences of opinion, but these differences, however, do not cause material disagreements as to the conduct of the nation. It was the same during the war."

Common Good

He continued: "Men who differ can still work together sincerely for the common good. We shall be misshaping the nation's safety and destroying our opportunities for progress if we do not settle any disagreements in this spirit without thought of partisan advantages."

With possible harshly restrictive Republican labour legislation in mind President Truman stressed: "We must not adopt a punitive legislation. We must not, in order to punish a few labour leaders, pass vindictive laws which will restrict the proper rights of the rank and file of labour. We must not, under stress of emotion, endanger our American freedoms by taking ill-considered action which will lead to results not anticipated or designed."

Labour Policy

Stating that Government policy towards labour was still based on a principle of collective bargaining, President Truman said: "We must remember in reviewing the record of disputes of 1946 that management shares with labour the responsibility for failure to reach agreements which would have avoided strikes."

"For that reason we must realise that an industrial peace cannot be achieved merely by laws directed against the labour unions."

The President's four-point labour programme proposed: 1. An early enactment of legislation to outlaw jurisdictional strikes and "the use of economic force by either labour or management to decide the issues arising out of the interpretation of existing contracts." He proposed legislation to provide machinery whereby unsettled disputes concerning the interpretation of an existing agreement—as in the recent coal strike—would entitle either party to the "final and binding" arbitration.

2. An extension of the facilities within the Department of Labour for assisting collective bargaining.

Social Security

3. A broadening of the national programme of social legislation to alleviate the causes of workers' insecurity. "Congress should consider the extension and broadening of our social security system, better housing, a comprehensive national health programme and provisions for a minimum wage," the President said.

4. The appointment of a temporary joint commission by Congress to inquire into the entire field of labour-management relations.

President Truman proposed that this commission should investigate the principles of national welfare. "On a proper solution of this problem may depend the whole industrial future of the United States," he said. The paralyzing effect of nation-wide strikes in such industries as transport, coal, oil, steel or communications could result in a national disaster. We were able to avoid such a disaster in recent years by the use of extraordinary war powers.

"All these powers will soon be gone. In their place must be created an adequate system and an effective one."

He left foreign affairs to the end of his speech and stressed that "progress in reaching our domestic goals is closely related to our conduct of foreign affairs."—Reuter.

INDO-CHINA OPERATIONS

FRENCH MINISTER
EVASIVE

(From Doon Campbell, Reuters Special Correspondent)

Saigon, Jan. 6.

The French Minister for Overseas Territories, M. Marius Moutet, now in Indo-China on a "fact-finding" mission, said tonight that he was hopeful that cease-fire would be ordered in the near future between French troops and forces of the Viet Nam Republic.

For the moment, he added, "the situation has to be seen from a military basis."

Substantial French reinforcements, including men of the Foreign Legion, have begun to arrive in Indo-China. The bulk are to go to Hanoi and Nam Dinh, 50 miles south of Hanoi, where the French garrison is besieged.

What is officially described as "considerable number" of Foreign Legion troops disembarked at Haiphong, from the 30,000-ton liner Pasteur. Other troops were sent north by air in Dakotas and Junkers from southern Indo-China.

The British Consulate in Hanoi has sent a letter to the Viet Nam President, Dr. Ho Chi Minh, asking for the liberation of or assurances of fair treatment for the 200 French civilians held as hostages, it was reported today.

The British, United States and Chinese consulates are to send representatives to the Viet Nam President's headquarters at Haiphong to obtain his personal assurances "for the safety of hostages, who are held in a camp at Hao Binh, 75 miles southwest of Hanoi."

Conference Request

The Viet Nam Radio today re-affirmed that Dr. Ho had sent a letter to M. Moutet suggesting that they should meet for a conference. The Radio said that Viet Nam Government quarters were surprised by M. Moutet's statement that he had not received the letter.

M. Moutet, who is expected to return to France within the next 48 hours, at a press conference tonight said that the French Government had not modified its attitude towards Dr. Ho Chi Minh.

M. Moutet said: "It would have been easy for Dr. Ho to make contact with me in Hanoi—he knew where I was, but I did not know where he was. I think Dr. Ho's appeal over the radio was just propaganda."

Obstruction

M. Moutet added: "The people now responsible for the political action of Viet Nam had no desire to effect a meeting in Hanoi with Dr. Ho Chi Minh. I cannot say anything about Dr. Ho himself, because I do not know if he is very free. I am certain that in the Viet Nam there are people who do not want an agreement, and who for the time being are out to obstruct an agreement."

He said that the people who would sign the truce treaty "will not necessarily be the people declaring war."

The 70-year-old Socialist statesman was evasive about one or two questions, as in one answer he would not supplement "It is not the same sort of situation as before." His last sentence was "Some people do not wish us to obtain an agreement—they have created an instrument, a big military force, but I believe that that force has exploded in their hands."

M. Moutet's statement, scheduled for broadcast tonight, is again postponed.

Saigon newspapers have been directed to blackout all future mention of the Viet Nam Government or its actions, except as mentioned in official French communiques, as that Government is described as "non-existent."

Military Operations

Meanwhile, French motorised columns advancing from Haiphong and Hanoi have already joined hands southeast of Hanoi, opening up the key

Cold Wave
Sweeping
Europe

London, Jan. 6.

This winter's second severe cold wave has swept across Europe, bringing snow to Rome, icy gales to the English Channel and industrial shutdowns from lack of enough coal to go around in Germany and Britain.

The newest wave killed ten persons in Italy, where snow filled high mountain passes and temperatures went far below freezing.

Snow fell in London and in the south of England, as cuts in electricity, ranging up to 10 per cent, were ordered in some sections.

It was freezing in Paris, but a slight rise in temperature is expected tomorrow. It even snowed on the French Riviera, but the snow melted at once.

Sub-freezing weather was reported from Holland and Switzerland and international traffic to the latter country was delayed.

In Berlin the temperature was 22 below zero Centigrade and the City Council curtailed all heat except enough to keep water pipes from freezing.

In Vienna, the cold struck as many homes were going without electricity, water and gas, and medical men said hundreds were treated at hospitals for frozen legs and arms.—United Press.

American
Hint On Dairen

Washington, Jan. 6.

The U.S. Government has urged Russia and China to terminate "abnormal conditions" prevailing at the Manchurian port of Dairen, the State Department disclosed.

Notes delivered last Friday through the American Embassy at Moscow and Nanking, declared: "The American Government considers it desirable that the current unsatisfactory situation with regard to the status and control of the port of Dairen be promptly considered by the Chinese and Soviet Governments with a view to the implementation of pertinent provisions of the Soviet-Chinese agreement of August 14, 1945, in regard to Dairen."

While noting that the matter is one for direct negotiation between China and the Soviet Union, the note said that the United States felt it had responsibility to American interests to raise the question.—Reuter.

highway which had been cut at more than 150 points since November 20.

Sporadic Viet Nam attacks through the country were "all part of one concerted plan," said a French military source, who added that there were 11,000 Viet Nam troops without uniforms "under orders from the north" in the province of Cochinchina.

French military casualties from December 20 to the New Year were put by these sources as 183 killed, 386 wounded and 28 missing. French civilian casualties for the same period were assessed at 150 killed and 150 missing.

No estimate of Viet Nam casualties is available, but French sources say that "they were more than ours."—Reuter.

Millionaire's Son Rescued

Mahila, Jan. 7. Joseph Dee, 21-year-old son of a millionaire Chinese merchant, who was kidnapped on December 7, was rescued yesterday by detectives in Polo, Bulacan province. Dee, who was with his chauffeur, had been a prisoner for a month. The kidnappers demanded 1,000,000 pesos for his release. Nine alleged members of the kidnap gang are in custody. The police are looking for the gang leader and a Chinese woman, who are the only missing members of the gang. It is reported that the Dee family paid 50,000 pesos after various negotiations, but the gang continued to hold Dee until he was rescued. United Press.

American Business Powers Race In Antarctic

Berlin, Jan. 6. Lieutenant-General Lucius Clay, Deputy Military Governor of the United States Zone of Germany, told a press conference today that the British and American Governments were trying to facilitate activities of businessmen in Germany by relaxing legislation against "trading with the enemy." He said that the principle being advocated was that there should not be an increase in business with Germany, but that for the time being only replacement of foreign-owned businesses should be allowed.

The type of American businessmen who would be welcomed in Germany, General Clay said, would be those who could negotiate with producers of component parts for which Americans would pay dollars for goods to be made in America. The monthly quota of 150 business entry permits had never been fulfilled so far, but it was contemplated that many countries would soon be doing business with Germany. When General Clay was asked if the "Hate Germany" policy had been dropped, he replied that there never has been such policy and added: "We want to get away from a policy of extreme aloofness and meet representative Germans in open discussions and show that we believe in democracy."

It was the first time that a conference of this level was attended by German reporters and many occupation problems were discussed, both with General Clay and with his political adviser, Mr. Robert Murphy. Mr. Murphy said that individual Germans had made informal approaches to the Allies pointing out that it might not be wise to saddle the new democratic Government with the signing of the peace treaty, because the German representatives might subsequently be blamed for the part they had played and thus jeopardize the prospects of democratic development. It had been suggested by one German, Mr. Murphy continued, that the United Nations should draw up some kind of statutory enactment restoring Germany's sovereignty and bringing the treaty into being. He added: "There is a feeling that we should not hurry this matter as there is plenty of time."

A Signature. Mr. Murphy said: "There will be a treaty and signature, but the exact authority has not yet been defined." Questioned on the forthcoming German peace treaty, talks in London and Moscow, Mr. Murphy said that attendance of German representatives had not been considered. The fusion of the Anglo-American zones of occupation had not got off to a bad start, General Clay said, with a drop of about 25 per cent in factory output, which was all due to the present cold snap in Europe. The freeze-up had created a serious situation "although there is not much we can do about it," he added. "We have had to divert fuel from factories, but we have managed so far to keep food moving on railways. If the cold continues we shall be unable to move the Rhine barges and the effects of the bi-zonal merger will be further delayed."—Reuter.

U.S. Dollar Not Likely To Be "Scarce" This Year

N.Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 6. Activity on Wall Street today quieted in the afternoon, as traders devoted their main attention to President Truman's message. Prices, however, continued around the day's best with steel deriving some additional benefit from the two point rise in steel operations to 89.7 per cent of capacity.

Brokers considered President Truman's message constructive insofar as the proposed labour legislation is concerned, but at the same time some are of the opinion that while the move was in the right direction, it was not extensive enough. Late profit-taking caused a shading of numerous top prices but still left the market showing gains up to one point or so with Dupont and Union Pacific four to five points higher at 18 1/2 and 13 1/2 respectively.

The market closed very steady.

BRITAIN DRAWS ON CREDIT

Washington, Jan. 6. Britain has drawn a further $200,000,000 of her United States credit, United States Treasury officials disclosed here tonight. This withdrawal, which was made on January 2, brings to $800,000,000 the amount so far taken by Britain from the loan ratified by Congress last summer. It maintains a rate of expenditure of some $100,000,000 monthly, which, if maintained, would exhaust the credit in three years instead of the five years originally planned.—Reuter.

The United States dollar will not be anything like a "scarce currency" in 1947. That is the plain implication of the United States Federal Reserve Board's striking calculation that foreign countries can finance purchases of $11,000,000,000 worth of United States exports in 1947 (against about $9,000,000,000 in 1946) without drawing on their very tardy dollar and gold reserves, and with relatively little strain on the dollar resources of the Bretton Woods Bank and Fund.

The calculation is: Dollars will be provided to the world by United States imports (allowing for the higher price level) $6,000,000,000; sales of newly mined gold to the United States $500,000,000; remnant of UNRRA plus any special relief which Congress may authorize, $1,000,000,000; drawings on existing credits from the United States Export-Import Bank, even if that Bank grants no additional credits, $1,000,000,000; British drawings on United States loan, $1,250,000,000; other countries drawings of dollars from Bretton Woods Bank and Fund; $1,250,000,000.

This important calculation is much more reassuring than those commonly calculated. Since about $3,000,000,000 of the United States loan to Britain was still undrawn at the beginning of 1947, the drawing of $1,250,000,000 during 1947 would be relatively moderate and would enable the loan to last longer than most Britons at present fear.

World Bank

Since the total dollar availability of the Bretton Woods Bank and Fund approaches $6,000,000,000, drawing of $1,250,000,000 during 1947 would be quite moderate—though it is urgent for France and some other countries that the World Bank should get going without much further delay.

What has happened to the World Bank is what the late Lord Keynes at Savannah quite

Soviet Radio Station Closed

Shanghai, Jan. 6. The only Soviet radio station in China, known as the "Voice of the Soviet Union," has been closed by orders of the Chinese Government, despite diplomatic action by the Soviet Embassy in Nanking in an effort to continue broadcasting.

The closure followed orders on December 31 that all stations, except 18 authorised by the Government, must close and dismantle their equipment.

The Soviet station was established during the war by the Tass Agency, which owns and operates it.

Russians in Shanghai contributed financially to its operation. The station broadcast in English, Russian and Chinese.—United Press.

Report On Minerals In U.S.

Washington, Jan. 6.

The Bureau of Mines said if the nation is heading for a tremendous boom, the vast mineral wealth that would be required is on hand.

The United States and Alaska broke all records in the value of minerals and mineral products produced during 1946—$8,900,000,000 worth.

That total exceeds 1945 production by 9 per cent and is 6 per cent above the previous peak in 1944.

New production records were set for petroleum and natural gas among fuels and for potash and phosphate rock among fertilizers. Increases in the production of cement, clay and clay products, sand and gravel, slate and stone ranged from 15 to over 80 per cent.

In the three major classes of mineral products—metals, fuels and other non-metals—only metals showed an overall decline of 4 per cent.

Gold was the only principle metal to show a gain with production up 54 per cent over 1945.

The value of fuel production increased 9 per cent, other non-metals 38 per cent. Metallic product output dropped to 1,900,000,000—75,000,000 below 1945 total—chiefly because of strikes and difficulties in obtaining new equipment and supplies.—Associated Press.

Butchers' Strike In Sydney

Sydney, Jan. 6.

Butchers in Sydney and Newcastle, New South Wales, will begin a strike today against the Australian Government's price fixing policy whereby they say the price of livestock remains above the retail price at which they are compelled to sell, it was reported here.

Most butchers in both cities are closing indefinitely while those remaining open—probably 25 per cent—are expected to have difficulty in obtaining supplies.

The butchers complain that they are forced to sell at a fixed price but since the wholesalers' prices are above those fixed by law, they are unable to carry on profitably.—Reuter.

New York, Jan. 7. The official price of foreign silver declined 1 cent an ounce to 82 1/2 cents.—Associated Press.

AUSSIES ROBBED OF VICTORY

England's Magnificent Fighting Innings

Yardley Does It Again

Melbourne, Jan. 7. The third Test ended at 6 p.m. today in a draw, with seven England wickets down for 310, Norman Yardley, Alec Bedser and four short adjournments owing to rain robbed Australia of a victory.

When Hammond was bowled by Lindwall there was still about two hours left for play and the only question was whether England could hang on until the drawing of stumps. At this stage Yardley was joined by Alec Bedser, the tall Surrey bowler, and the pair stayed together until about 15 minutes before the close of play. Bedser stepped in front of a straight ball from Miller and was out for an invaluable 25. When he left the game was safe from England's point of view.

Evans had not opened his account when stumps were drawn, and Yardley had hit up 45. There was a tremendous ovation for this Yorkshire all-rounder, as he picked up a stump after Lindwall had bowled the last ball of the match and rushed away from a cheering crowd. Yardley had made 61 in the first innings. Rain interrupted play on four occasions during the afternoon and the light after tea was very bad. Despite the fact that England was facing a real crisis neither the captain, Hammond, nor the two batsmen concerned, Yardley and Bedser, made a single appeal to the umpires, and it was left to Bradman to call his men off the field.

England had lost two wickets in putting on 163 runs to the wall. The lunch interval was taken. The two batsmen out were Hutton and Edrich. Hutton and Washbrook, continuing from their overnight total of 91, batted cautiously and runs came rather slowly, chiefly owing to the good bowling of McCool, who sent down four successive maidens at one period. Washbrook continued to outpace his partner.

Best Partnership
With the total at 138, Hutton 40 and Washbrook 90, the first wicket fell. Hutton attempted a hit off Toshack and was well taken by Bradman, who was fielding behind the bowler. Hutton had batted for nearly three hours. It was a slow but correct innings, as much depended on the opening partnership for a draw. The 138 runs put on was the highest opening partnership of England's for the present series. Edrich, the Middlesex all-rounder, took the place of Hutton and shortly afterwards the 150 went up after England had batted for 198 minutes.

Washbrook at this stage was 97 and he reached his century by hitting a three. He had played delightful cricket for his century. Both Washbrook and Edrich, with their eyes on the clock, were subdued, but with the total at 163 Edrich got in front of a straight ball from McCool and the umpire had no hesitation in giving Edrich out.

This was a bad blow for England as the batsman got out in the second last over before lunch. Compton, another Middlesex bat, came out to partner Washbrook and had not opened his account when the lunch interval was taken.

Backs To The Wall
When play was resumed after lunch Australia slowly gained the upper hand once more. Compton was run out when 14 when he ran down the pitch after his partner.

New Bantam Champ

San Francisco, Jan. 7. Virtually unknown 21-year-old Dave Dade pounded his way into Ringdom's Blue Book tonight when he took a 15-round point decision to win the world's bantamweight championship from Manuel Ortiz of California.

Lightly regarded as a challenger even by the National Boxing Association which refused to consider him a qualified opponent, Dade took everything Ortiz had and held him off with a flicking left hand and then whipped him with a short right.

Ortiz failed to show once the champion style which won him the title from Lou Silica in 1941 in Hollywood. It was the case of a 21-year-old fighter whipping a tired 31-year-old champ who had grown rich as California's "Lettuce and Cauliflower King."

Dade beat Ortiz at his own game—fighting, in which Ortiz was considered a past-master.—United Press.

Babe Ruth Operated On

New York, Jan. 6. 'Babe Ruth, baseball's most famous player came through a serious two hour neck operation in a "satisfactory" condition, it was announced today.

An hour after the surgery, Dr. Hippolyte Wertheim predicted a quick and complete recovery for the former home run king.

Hospital attendants went further and said Ruth would be able to walk in a day or so unless complications set in. They said he probably would leave the hospital within two weeks in time for his 52nd birthday Feb. 6.

Dr. Wertheim would not disclose the precise nature of the ailment but prior to the operation, a hospital statement said Ruth would be operated on to relieve an intractable neck pain.—Associated Press.

London, Jan. 6. County Dublin lost to Cardiff by 6 points to 18 in the only Rugby Union games played today.

The marriage of Mr. William Godwin Hendra, residing at No. 51, Gloucester Road, and Miss Chan May-hing took place at the Registry yesterday with Mr. J. M. Hall officiating.

M.C.C. Revise Rules Of Cricket

London, Jan. 7. The Marylebone Cricket Club, presenting the first complete revision of the rules of cricket for 63 years, have made no drastic alterations. Rather, the M.C.C. have taken pains to remove the present ambiguities and put the laws in logical sequence.

Revision of the rules, which will come into effect in 1948, has necessitated one of the biggest tasks in cricket legislation. The M.C.C. studied a vast number of replies and comments on their proposals for the revised laws, which were given worldwide circulation in 1945 before preparing the final report, the draft of which is to be submitted to a special meeting at Lords on May 7.

When the expected formality of their adoption has gone through copies of the new laws will be despatched to cricketers' bodies in all parts of the world. The draft of the new laws published today contain 47 rules, a reduction of 13 on the existing number. They are divided into five sections: A—Players, umpires and scorers; B—Implementation of the game; C—Care and maintenance of the pitch; D—Conduct of the game and E—Duties of umpires.

In the main the proposals have not changed much from the 1945 suggested revisions, but there are two important alterations in the new draft. No longer will the wicket be held "down" if the ball has been dislodged. The new law stipulates that the ball must be removed completely from the top of the stumps and a note has been added to cover the possibility of the ball falling and lodging between the top of

Soccer Trial

The interport trial played at Caroline Hill was a farce from start to finish and it is certain that the selectors learnt very little.

The game started 15 minutes late owing to the non-arrival of several selected players. The only really bright episodes in the drab game were the goals, eight of them being really grand efforts. Both defences were poor chiefly because most of the players were not very interested. Willis scored the first for the Probables four minutes after the start and soon after, Schultz put them two up with a grand shot from 25 yards which gave Powell no chance whatever. Two minutes later Lee Ping Chiu scored their third after holding off a strong challenge by Coles.

The Possibles then started to wake up and Lau Chung Sang reduced the lead with a glorious thirty yard drive. Heggie who is good but only in patches had a fine dribble beating three men before passing to Ho Ying Fun whose shot was handled. Heggie taking the penalty kick shook the cross-bar with a terrific shot.

Soon after half time Schultz put the Probables four up with a beautiful first time shot from a centre by Willis. The Possibles then took charge of the game and goals quickly followed from Strickland, Jones (3) and Heggie two. Little was seen this half of the Probables forward line but undoubtedly Schultz, a newcomer to this season's football, is a find. He combined very well indeed with Gosano in the first half and it is a pity he was moved to centre forward after half time. The Colony badly need a good centre forward as neither of those on show were up to interport standard. The selectors have a difficult job and it is not made easier by the non-appearance at these trials of leading players.

Possibles:—Powell, Hau, Yung Sang, Crumley, Lau Chung Sang, Heggie, Jones, Coles, Strickland, Fung Kwang Shing, Ho Ying Fun, Tsao Tsin Ping.

Probables:—Evans, Cashman, Lee Kwok Wei, Anderson, Williamson, Leung Wing Chui, Lee Shek Yau, Willis, Lee Ping Chui, Schultz, Gosano.

SHOWDOWN IN NEAR EAST?

2. The belief that the British Government has not committed itself to any long-term policy, but that the field has been so narrowed by the general rejection of a federal scheme that some form of partition may be the only plan commanding any large measure of support.

3. The possibility that Britain in certain circumstances may refer the problem to the United Nations, but certainly in such case she would not merely "hand over the baby" but would make specific recommendations to the United Nations on her ideas of a solution.

Alternative Plans

4. Expectation that there will be no official disclosure of the British Government, decisions before the resumption of the Palestine talks in London on January 21 and the belief that the Cabinet by then will be in a position to lay a number of alternative suggestions, including several variants of partition, before the conference.

After the Cabinet meeting this afternoon, Mr. Creech Jones and Mr. Clement Attlee had a 30-minute private talk with Sir Alan Cunningham, High Commissioner of Palestine, who has already discussed the present crisis with the Colonial Secretary, the Foreign Minister and the Minister of State.

Sir Alan is expected to return to Palestine within the next week, his authority strengthened as the result of his visit.—Reuter.

Reinforcements

London, Jan. 7. Tanned veterans of desert campaigns are rolling into Palestine from Egypt, as British Army chiefs await Cabinet permission to launch a full-scale offensive against Jewish extremists.

Stanley Cheques

In Legislative Council tomorrow the Hon. Mr. R. D. Gillespie, will ask the following question:—

On June 20th 1946, I asked Government to state what was being done with the cheques drawn in Stanley which, by order of Mr. Gimson, were deposited with the Controller of Currency. Government replied, inter alia, that in view of the desirability of adopting a common policy for the disposal of cheques issued in internment camps in British Dependencies, all cheques handed over to this Government were forwarded to the Colonial Office for disposal.

Since then, there has been no further announcement by Government.

In view of the fact that these cheques have now been in the hands of the Colonial Office for well over a year, and many people are being seriously inconvenienced by the lack of a settlement, will Government ascertain from the Colonial Office whether, in fact, it has any policy with regard to these cheques and, if so, what it is?

The Attorney General will move the First reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to amend the Quarantine and Prevention of Disease Ordinance, 1936."

The Attorney General will move the Second and Third readings of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to consolidate and amend the law relating to general and school holidays."

The Honorable Mr. M. M. Watson will move the First reading of a Bill intitled "An Ordinance to provide for the incorporation of the Council of the Helena May Institute for Women and for vesting in the Corporation the property and rights of the Association known as The Helena May Institute for Women registered under the provisions of the Companies Ordinances, 1911 to 1913."

H.K. Matric Hoax

The University of Hong Kong, announcing an attempt to obtain a matriculation certificate under false pretences says:—A case has just occurred of a candidate in the Matriculation Examination of 1936 writing to the Registrar claiming to have lost his certificate, and asking for a letter to certify that he had passed.

On investigation of the records, it was found that this student failed in the examination.

The University takes a very serious view of this attempt to obtain a certificate to which the applicant was not entitled, and has written to his employer giving the facts.

The object of making this matter public is to let it be as widely known as possible that the University authorities will use every means in their power to bring to book any further attempts of unscrupulous persons to obtain certificates or letters of recommendation under false pretences.

MR. CAINE'S APPOINTMENT

The Secretary of State for the Colonies with the approval of the Prime Minister has made the following appointments:—Mr. T.I.K. Lloyd, K.C.M.G. to be Permanent Under Secretary of State for the Colonies in succession to Sir George Gater, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., D.S.O. who is about to retire from the public service.

Mr. Sydney Caine, C.M.G. to be an Additional Deputy Under Secretary of State for the Colonies.

The appointments will take effect from February 1, 1947. It will be recalled that Mr. Sydney Caine was for some time the Financial Secretary in Hong Kong and the principal advocate of Income Tax as a special war measure.

The visit to the Colony of Gen. Sir Montague Stopford, C-in-C. South East Asia Land Forces, has been cancelled. The General was to have stayed two days as the guest of Gen. Penning at Flagstaff House.

Naval Store Theft Case Continues

"We are here to dispense justice, and as the tenth defendant is the only one legally represented. I shall afford him every opportunity to question witness," declared Mr. W. H. Latimer at the Kowloon Court yesterday when he overruled the Crown's objection to Ali Sher's request that witness, Abdul Curreen, should swear on the Koran that the evidence he gave was the truth. This request was put to Curreen in question form and, on his agreeing to do so, a copy of the Koran was produced.

Witness was testifying in the case in which seven Chinese coolies, represented by Mr. Marj, cus da Silva, and three Indians, two of whom were represented by Mr. d'Almeida Remedios, were charged with breaking into and entering Kowloon Naval Dockyard victualling stores on Nov. 7 and attempting to steal various articles of naval stores. Mr. R. S. Smith, assisted by DSI Collins, prosecuted.

In his evidence, Curreen stated that on Oct. 16 when coming out of the cinema at Gun Club Hill he overheard some Indians discussing plans to commit a burglary, and that while he was lying in bed in his quarters that evening he also overheard Ali Sher telling another Indian that "Something must be done. I am not sure. They must not know what we are doing." He further affirmed that as the result of his informing Inspector Buckingham, RNYP, of what he knew he was transferred to Stonecutters Island.

Said O.K.
James McDougall, former sergeant in RNYP, stated that at 11 p.m. of Oct. 19 last he was approached by Ali Sher and asked if he was interested in making money. He said he was not, but the Indian told him that he (Sher) and a number of other men would break into the victualling stores and that if witness would be paid $1,000. The only thing he had to do, said McDougall, was to place certain Indian data in a letter to Inspector Buckingham.

After telling the Indian "O.K.", declared witness, he went to report the matter to Inspector Buckingham.

At 11.30 p.m. on Oct. 24, continued witness, he was given a slip of paper on which were written a few numbers (of the Indian constables) who he was to put on certain posts. He reported to his superior officer and then went out to Canton Road where he found an Indian detective and two Chinese constables. The robbery did not take place that night.

Witness then went on to describe what happened at the time of the alleged robbery. He said that he was with Mr. Silva, McDougall denied that he was involved in the alleged burglary as an accomplice but that what he did was on the instructions of Inspector Buckingham. He affirmed that the written report made by him was signed on Oct. 21 and not at a later date as suggested by defence counsel. He also denied Mr. Remedios' suggestion that the reason why two of the Indians whose numbers were given on the slip of paper were still working in the Naval Yard was that he and Insp. Buckingham would not like them to be questioned too closely.

Flashed Torch
Replying to Ali Sher, witness admitted that he was involved in a motor car case some time previous but stated, in reply to Mr. Smith, only disciplinary action was taken against him. The charge against him was neglect of duty in not making certain that the driver of the car was actually Eng.-Comdr. Greenwood before allowing it to be given out of the gates at 2.15 a.m. Further questioned by Mr. Smith, witness stated that no report was made by him to the civil police respecting the loss of the car.

Inspector Buckingham corroborated the former witness' evidence and told the Court that before the Chinese landed from a motorboat, McDougall was in the Police office near the main gate of the Naval Yard with Jam Din standing by the gate. The Indian sergeant who was also on duty was sent on his round by McDougall about ten minutes before the landing. McDougall, went on witness, came out of the office and handed a torch to Din who walked to the jetty and flashed the torch seawards. When the Chinese landed they walked towards the main gate while McDougall walked towards the European quarters. The Chinese spoke to Din who pointed out the window of the store to them.

After the Chinese had entered the store, stated Insp. Buckingham, he got in contact with the Superintendent of the store to obtain the key to the lock. After posting his men around the building, witness went in and heard foot-steps on the upper floor. With McDougall, he went up stairs and arrested the seven Chinese found there.

Cross-examination of witness was deferred till the next hearing on Jan. 21.

Constable Sentenced

Found guilty unanimously by the jury on all three counts of taking part in the arrest and inflicting bodily harm on So Shiu-kuen and in the arrest of a shot-down American airman, Jean Fenton Balch, on Jan. 16, 1945, Lau Yuen-chau, Shantung constable during the Japanese occupation, was sentenced to two years and nine months imprisonment by Mr. Justice T. J. Gould at the Criminal Sessions yesterday.

Entering a plea for mitigation, Mr. E. Bernatchi, instructed by Mr. A. S. C. Comber, submitted that accused's action was far less heinous than that of the two Indians who were subsequently sentenced to four years dating from their arrest.

Though there were three separate counts, Mr. Bernatchi contended, they were of the same nature and would amount to the same. The Defence Counsel also pointed out that it was the only offence that accused had allegedly committed during the period of his service as a Kensa with the Japanese. Furthermore, accused had been in jail custody for 15 months.

Remarking that he had taken all this into consideration, His Lordship said that he would impose a sentence of two years and nine months dating from yesterday.

Testifying in his own behalf in the witness box, Lau said that in 1944 he requested to resign from the Japanese service, but was refused by the Japanese authorities.

Lau said on the day in question he was taken into a house by a Japanese to bring out the airman's parachute which he later handed over to the Japanese.

Accused denied that he went to the scene in a car with the Japanese, that he arrested So or the airman. He claimed that he only saw the airman walking into a car.

Lau also denied having assaulted So with a rifle or a revolver, pointing out that at that time no Kensas were allowed to carry arms.

Yubuki Rikie, former officer in charge of No. 7 Police Station, testifying for accused, said that in Dec., 1944, orders were received to withdraw all rifles and revolvers from Chinese Kensas.

To Mr. A. J. Clifford, Crown Counsel, witness said that the arms were withdrawn in order to supply the Indian Unit.
